Houdini, The Musical

"The Escapologist." "The Handcuff King." The biggest global superstar of his era. Since his death 80 years ago after a punch in the stomach from a McGill student here in Montréal, Harry Houdini has been the subject of any number of books, movies and television programs. And now, the Leonor and Alvin Segal Theatre, in co-production with the Festival, is proud to present this original musical comedy on the life of the first great American popular artist.

Featuring some of his greatest escapes, this captivating and entertaining portrait spotlights the life of Houdini, from his humble beginnings in Vaudeville to the zenith of his fame. Along the way, he declares war on mediums and spiritualists, embarking on a fierce campaign to debunk them. Often disguising himself to confront them incognito, Houdini would then recreate their fraudulent tricks for his own public, costing him a friendship with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, a fervent believer in spiritualism. Staged by a veteran Montréal creative team, this production features 20 singers, actors and musicians. Music, magic, emotion... and an escape from the ordinary!
